

Print the parts page once and measure the length of the scale. Figure the percentage of change that needs to be made to make the motor the right scale. Print the page a second time with the printer setting on the percentage you came up with.

